LWVGB Moderates District 2 Community Forum

League of Women Voters of Greater Birmingham President, Ida Tyree-Hyche and board member, Cyrondys Jackson, served as co-moderators for the District 2 Community Involvement Forum on August 25th. The forum, held at Ruffner Mountain Nature Center in Birmingham and sponsored by Jefferson County Commissioner Sandra Little Brown, presented residents and neighborhood leaders with the opportunity to learn more about the sewer debt crisis, talks with creditors, possible bankruptcy filing and rate increases. Attendants were also updated on the general fund shortfall, created by the loss of the county's occupational tax, which pushed some 70 million dollars annually into county coffers. Commissioner Brown said, "Each commissioner is committed to making the best decision for the citizens of Jefferson County."

League of Women Voters of Greater Birmingham President Ida Tyree-Hyche said, "As Jefferson County faces its toughest financial struggle to date, it is imperative that citizens are informed and involved in the decisions of elected officials- the League supports and encourages this." Commissioner Brown and her staff commended the LWVGB for its participation and dedication to public issues. Jefferson County Commissioners set a September 16th deadline for making a decision on an agreed settlement with creditors or filing Chapter 9 Bankruptcy.

Why Celebrate Women's Equality Day

By Shade' A. Hyche, Cumberland School of Law Student

The right to vote in the United States - what does it mean? Unfortunately, in 2011 that right doesn't mean much to some people. Why? Because many young people, like me, were born into a time when the right to vote for women and African-Americans is the norm. However, the same right that we take for granted, women before us fought hard to attain.

On August 26, 1920, the 19th Amendment was adopted into the United States Constitution. The 19th Amendment states that the right of the citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged on account of sex.ⁱ The passage of the 19th Amendment was a culmination of a 70-year battle that is documented as beginning at an 1848 women's rights convention in Seneca Falls, New York.ⁱⁱ

THE VOTER - September 2011

Did you know...

The League of Women Voters of the United States believes that democratic government depends upon informed and active participation at all levels of government.

The League further believes that governmental bodies must protect the citizen's right to know by giving adequate notice of proposed actions, holding open meetings and making public records accessible.

To commemorate the passage of the 19th Amendment, we celebrate Women's Equality Day. In 1971, at the request of New York Democratic Representative Bella Abzug, August 26 was designated as Women's Equality Day.ⁱⁱⁱ The observance of Women's Equality Day not only commemorates the passage of the 19th Amendment, but also calls attention to women's continuing efforts toward full equality.

Whatever the original reasons for women being denied the right to vote, or the right to do things men were allowed to do, today in America, we live in a much different world. No, we haven't fully "arrived." There are new barriers waiting to be broken. Women's Equality Day is the time to remember that we are standing on the promises of trailblazing women – some who made history through the Women's Suffrage movement. There are women who quietly broke barriers in our workplaces, communities, law schools, courts, churches, and society. Let's take the time to remember them and learn from their lessons, which we graciously benefit daily.

The President Speaks

By League President Ida Tyree-Hyche

I want to talk about League governance, with a "tidbit" on governance for the next three issues of The Voter.

Governance Part I. The year 2011 has presented lost of issues of interest and opportunities for the League to consider. Much of the League's outstanding credibility and reputation comes from the fact that we follow specific protocols. These protocols include determining:

- Who should speak for the League in the public arena
 - Whether certain positions addressed in legislation or in public events (such as rallies/coalitions, etc.) align properly with the League positions before we attach our name to them
 - Whether we should ally with other groups on selected issues (in rallies, position letters, comments to the media, etc.), and
 - Whether all levels of the League are speaking with one voice, unless choosing collectively to remain silent
 - Who should decide whether certain positions addressed in legislation or in public events (such as rallies/coalitions, etc.) align (or oppose) so closely with League positions that we can offer our support/opposition (in the case of legislation) or participation/sponsorship (in the event of rallies, coalitions, etc.)?
1. First of all, such activities should be approved in advance by the LWGB Board appropriate League board. What determines who the appropriate board would be? If the action is based on a local position (i.e., support of the public library, local zoning ordinances, membership on the local school system's master plan committee), then the local League board.
 2. If the action is based on state positions, then the state President should be contacted in advance, who in turn may consult and poll the State Board, if needed. While this usually will not be a lengthy process, it is important if both the State Board and the Local League(s) plan to sign their organization's names as official participants. It can be very awkward if a local league signs on board for an activity, then the state board declines. We need to have a unified voice. Note: This does not refer to action alerts have been issued by the State League.

3. If the action is based on LWVUS positions, the LWVUS guidelines should be followed. At the LWVUS convention in 2010, there was considerable discussion about whether local or states leagues independently can contact congressmen/US Senators or participate in activities based on national positions without advanced permission. It was decided such advanced permission must be sought. Examples would be rallying with other groups on the Immigration issue. Note: This does not refer to contacting Members of Congress when a LWVUS Action Alert has been sent out.

Permission from LWVUS is obtained by completing the “State and Local League Form for Federal Issues,” located in the “Take Action” section of the LWVUS website (www.lwv.org).

Watch for Governance Part II in next month's issue of The Voter.

Social Justice Training Seminar supported by League Members

The United Methodist Women held their National Social Justice Training Seminar at the Sheraton Birmingham Hotel on August 13-17. Every four years over 200 UMW members from all over the U.S. gather to study and make action plans to address social justice issues. This year the participants addressed immigration, domestic violence, human trafficking and climate change.

League members Mary Lynn Bates and Joyce Lanning served as resource people for the trafficking and climate issues for the 5-day conference. Each learned from the intense experience and appreciated the UMW leadership for addressing these difficult issues and coming to our city for this work.

International Day of Peace

By Wanda Godfrey, Director, Education

“Peace Day should be devoted to commemorating and strengthening the ideals of peace both within and among all nations and peoples. This day will serve as a reminder to all peoples that our organization with all its limitations is a living instrument in the service of peace and should serve all of us here within the organization as a constantly pealing bell reminding us that our permanent commitment above all interests or differences of any kind is to peace.”¹

Egypt, Libya, Somalia, Pakistan and Afghanistan are just a few global sites that have seen turmoil and instability during this year alone. There have been gains and losses as people seek freedoms and chart new paths toward self determination. Bloodied battles are a part of every newscast on every network. It seems as if we are moving farther away from the concept of peace. We cannot risk our planet’s future as a result of differences that have solutions. We only need to look for them and embrace them to make our world better for all nations and people.

As we commemorate the International Day of Peace on September 21, 2011, let us in a united moment of silence pray for peace all over the world. It must begin with each of us for the well being of future generations. We pray for peace!

1. Quote form UN resolution about International Day of Peace

Recognize Patriot Day

President George W. Bush signed into law on September 18, 2001 that September 11 would become Patriot Day in honor of those who lost their lives on that day as a result of terrorism.

In 2009, President Barack Obama signed into law the Edward M. Kennedy Serve America Act - a National Day of Service and Remembrance asking all to serve their community and nation as a memorial to the tragedy.

QUOTABLE QUOTES

No man can put a chain about the ankle of his fellow man without at last finding the other end fastened about his own neck.
~Frederick Douglass, speech, Civil Rights Mass Meeting, Washington, D.C., 1883

It has become a sarcastic proverb that a thing must be true if you saw it in a newspaper. That is the opinion intelligent people have of that lying vehicle in a nutshell. But the trouble is that the stupid people -- who constitute the grand overwhelming majority of this and all other nations -- do believe and are moulded and convinced by what they get out of a newspaper, and there is where the harm lies.
